

At left—Unusual photograph at the water jump of the Grand National Steeplechase, Aintree, England. This year there were thirty-five starters in the classic. Underwood & Underwood.

The Prince of Wales winning his first horse race; the First Life Guards point to point event at Pytchley in Northamptonshire. His mount was Rifle Grenade, and picture shows him taking the last jump. Copyright, Central News Service.

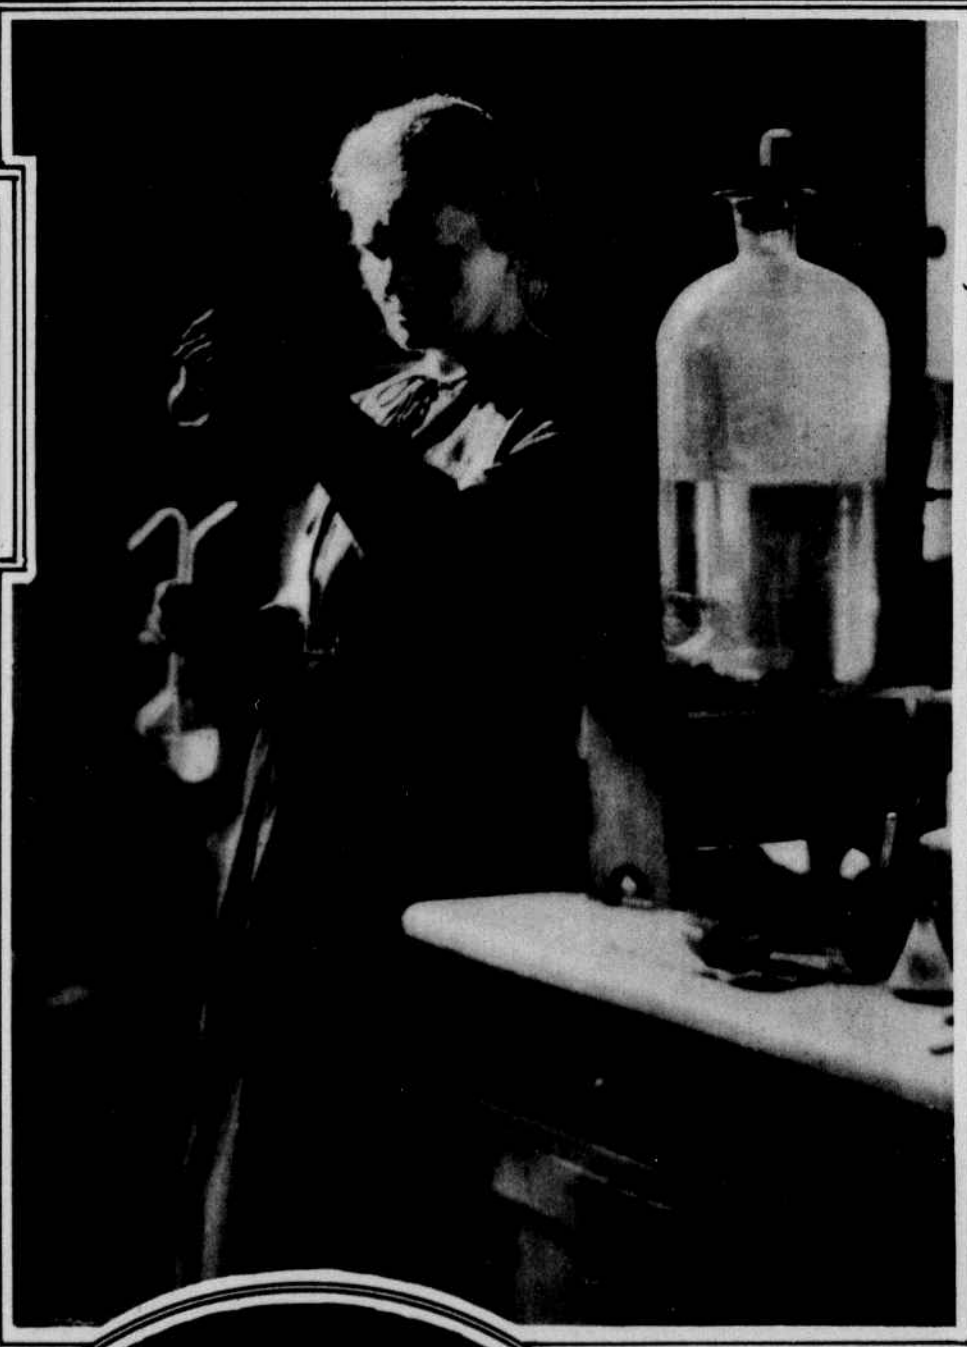

M. Rene Viviani, former Premier of France and Envoy Extraordinary, on the steps of the City Hall with Mayor Hylan. One of the best pictures of the distinguished visitor yet taken. International.

Above—Mrs. Francis Hunter Potter, whose recent marriage in Nice, France, came as a surprise to New York and Philadelphia society. As Miss Clara Waterman Knight she was first married to Sidney J. Colford, Jr. Isa L. Hill.

At left—An aerial torpedo carrying 270 pounds of explosive, soon to be dropped on German prizes in a test of airplanes vs. warships. Photograph taken at the Rockaway Naval Station. Underwood & Underwood.

Above—Latest picture of Mme. Curie, noted French scientist, soon to be America's guest. Photograph taken in her Paris laboratory, where she is testing radium. Photo, Wyndam, Paris.

These "lucky seven" little pickaninnies are all prize winners in baby contests. They were posed thus on the roof of an East Side hospital recently to help a drive for funds to maintain juvenile wards. Paul Thompson.

In Circle—Monfoon Jung, Chinese poet, who shocked his fellow countrymen here by writing a poem about the famine relief fund, a topic not 1,000 years old.